

Noora Hannula

Class description

When not busy with her own projects Noora Hannula gives workshops in various dance establishments nationally and internationally, and is a regular guest teacher at danish theater and physical theater educations, such as DDSKS Odense, Akademiet and Skuespillerskolen Ophelia. She teaches and gives workshops in contact improvisation/ partner work, in "The Art of Pretending" and in her own style called The Running Beast.

In short The Running Beast is a style that offers technical tools and exercises that help in the search of expanding personal movement capacity. Her classes vary from mainly technical to research based work and are always related to her current artistic interests and ways of working.

Noora has a strong gymnastics background at the level of World Championships, which echoes in her style as ease of acrobatics, definition of movements and strength in partner work.

During this 5 time encounter the focus of the classes will be: enjoying spending energy and Nooras' favorite technical tools/exercises in floor work and partnering.
